

NUCLEAR INDUSTRY

All forms of nuclear fission or fusion plant generate significant quantities of heat by design or as waste product from reactor coolant systems.

Direct low temperature district heating or higher temperature process heat from isolated nuclear plants may not be dispatchable to meet demand but could be stored within Heat Vault at scale for later re-use.